

Donovan: Praised by JFK and Castro

By MILT FREUDENHEIM
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

James Donovan
... negotiator

left New York carrying more medicines and baby food promised Castro in the prisoner "ransom" deal. About half of the promised total has reached Cuba.

The value to Castro is $53,000,000. But American companies provided the drugs and baby food at an actual cost of less than $23,000,000. Some companies even came out ahead after tax deductions; they have announced gifts of the "profit" to charities.

Donovan, whose law firm is one of the nation's leading insurance corporation attorneys, has donated endless hours of his own valuable time.

Recently he spent all of a Friday in a Brooklyn courthouse where a battle for control of a company with $12,000,000 assets is raging. Then he took a jet to Miami and registered under an assumed name in a hotel for a night's sleep.

Telephoning Cuba, he arranged clearance for a small Pan American plane to fly him to Havana where he spent the better part of Saturday negotiating with Castro and a man with a sense of humor.

In Havana, Castro provides

more than 3,500 Americans from Fidel Castro's Cuba laughed heartily, then told an anecdote only a man with a sense of humor would tell.

It happened in February, 1962. Donovan had just returned from Berlin where he officiated at the exchange of US master spy Rudolph Abel for American U-2 pilot Gary Powers and another American held by the Communists in East Berlin.

Newsman, foreign correspondents, television cameras men by the hundreds had been swarming through Donovan's 15-room duplex apartment overlooking Prospect Park in Brooklyn.

Mrs. Donovan and their four children had survived this with outward calm. Then on Feb. 20 her husband came into the dining room and found her reading a newspaper. She looked up and pointed to a huge headline that said, "Glenn in Orbit," reporting on astronaut John Glenn.

"Why don't you do something like that?" inquired Mary McKenna Donovan. "You never do a darn thing!"

Perhaps spurred by this crack, the ebullient white-haired Donovan went on to conduct some of the strangest negotiations in U.S. history. As a side operation, he conducted a losing campaign for the U.S. Senate of a character unprecedented in the annals of New York State. He was absent negotiating for prisoners most of the campaign.

Now 47, he has 30 American prisoners still to bring back from Cuba, and hundreds of requests for help in releasing prisoners in other parts of the world.

"Word has gotten around," he says, "that I specialize in releasing people from bondage."

This week another ship

left New York carrying more medicines and baby food promised Castro in the prisoner "ransom" deal. About half of the promised total has reached Cuba.

Said a judge who has an inkling of Donovan's busy life: "What's new? What have you been doing lately?"

Deadly serious business for the thousands of individuals involved and their families, Donovan's work recently took him to the notorious Isle of Pines prison where he was a prisoner "ranging" to charities.

Donovan, whose law firm is one of the nation's leading insurance corporation attorneys, has donated endless hours of his own valuable time.

Recently he spent all of a Friday in a Brooklyn courthouse where a battle for control of a company with $12,000,000 assets is raging. Then he took a jet to Miami and registered under an assumed name in a hotel for a night's sleep.

Telephoning Cuba, he arranged clearance for a small Pan American plane to fly him to Havana where he spent the better part of Saturday negotiating with Castro and a man with a sense of humor.

In Havana, Castro provides

more than 3,500 Americans from Fidel Castro's Cuba laughed heartily, then told an anecdote only a man with a sense of humor would tell.

It is a dangerous specialty. Fanatical anti-Castro Cubans in the U.S. have threatened his life. They consider the prisoner release a setback to their dream of U.S. invasion of Cuba.

Fanatical anti-Castro guards did not prevent Donovan from receiving delivery in Havana of a clandestine gift—a humidor full of cigars bearing the emblem of the Bay of Pigs invasion brigade and Donovan's name on the cover.

The anti-Communist underground had sent it.

Donovan, who had been wearing a sling because of bursitis in his shoulder, smuggled the souvenir out of Cuba inside the sling.

In his downtown Manhattan office overlooking the East River, Brooklyn, and New York Harbor, he proudly displays another memento, a gift from spy Abel, whom he defended by order of a U.S. court for four years before arranging the Abel-Powers prisoner swap.

It is a 17th century edition of commentaries on the legal code of Roman Emperor Justinian. Knowing Donovan collects old books, Abel sent back the rare item through Checkpoint Charlie in the Berlin Wall after his release.

Removing a slip of paper pasted inside the cover, bibliophile Donovan found a bookplate showing a former owner was the exceedingly un-

Marxist Royal Library of Saxony.

This week another ship

left New York carrying more medicines and baby food promised Castro in the prisoner "ransom" deal. About half of the promised total has reached Cuba.

Said a judge who has an inkling of Donovan's busy life: "What's new? What have you been doing lately?"

Deadly serious business for the thousands of individuals involved and their families, Donovan's work recently took him to the notorious Isle of Pines prison where he was a prisoner "ranging" to charities.

Donovan, whose law firm is one of the nation's leading insurance corporation attorneys, has donated endless hours of his own valuable time.

Recently he spent all of a Friday in a Brooklyn courthouse where a battle for control of a company with $12,000,000 assets is raging. Then he took a jet to Miami and registered under an assumed name in a hotel for a night's sleep.

Telephoning Cuba, he arranged clearance for a small Pan American plane to fly him to Havana where he spent the better part of Saturday negotiating with Castro and a man with a sense of humor.

In Havana, Castro provides

more than 3,500 Americans from Fidel Castro's Cuba laughed heartily, then told an anecdote only a man with a sense of humor would tell.

It is a dangerous specialty. Fanatical anti-Castro Cubans in the U.S. have threatened his life. They consider the prisoner release a setback to their dream of U.S. invasion of Cuba.

Fanatical anti-Castro guards did not prevent Donovan from receiving delivery in Havana of a clandestine gift—a humidor full of cigars bearing the emblem of the Bay of Pigs invasion brigade and Donovan's name on the cover.

The anti-Communist underground had sent it.

Donovan, who had been wearing a sling because of bursitis in his shoulder, smuggled the souvenir out of Cuba inside the sling.

In his downtown Manhattan office overlooking the East River, Brooklyn, and New York Harbor, he proudly displays another memento, a gift from spy Abel, whom he defended by order of a U.S. court for four years before arranging the Abel-Powers prisoner swap.

It is a 17th century edition of commentaries on the legal code of Roman Emperor Justinian. Knowing Donovan collects old books, Abel sent back the rare item through Checkpoint Charlie in the Berlin Wall after his release.

Removing a slip of paper pasted inside the cover, bibliophile Donovan found a bookplate showing a former owner was the exceedingly un-

Marxist Royal Library of Saxony.

This week another ship

only American to have been commended both by Castro and by the President of the U.S. For Brooklyn College ceremonies, President Kennedy wired congratulations "paying tribute to the public service of James Donovan . . . particularly the role he has performed in recent months in the difficult negotiations in Cuba."

A healthy-looking golfer enthusiast, who hasn't had time for a vacation at his 10-room Lake Placid cottage in two years, the pink-faced, 5 foot 8 inch Donovan foresees no early end to his labors.

"I've got a bear by the tail, and I can't let go," he says.

FEATUR ED DAILY
SPECIAL COMPLETE DINNER
Tender LONDON BROIL $7.59
(Sliced Beef Steak)
JASON'S RESTAURANT
2542 So. Bayshore Drive

THE SAME—THE ONLY ONE
Located In North Miami MU 1-5891
13205 N.W. 7th AVE.
FULLY AIR CONDITIONED
Open Daily 11 A.M. to 1 A.M.
Sunday 11 A.M. to 12 P.M.

ANTIPASTO
Soup De Jour or Minestrone
LARGE DELMONICO
PASTA
Salad and Spaghetti
Garlic Rolls and Coffee
$1.49

ANTIPASTO
Soup De Jour or Minestrone
VEAL CUTLET
BREMIGIANA
Salad and Spaghetti
Garlic Rolls and Coffee
$1.49

ANTIPASTO
Soup De Jour or Minestrone
SPAGHETTI
MEAT BALLS
Sole
Garlic Rolls and Coffee
99¢

ANTIPASTO
Soup De Jour or Minestrone
CUCINELLA A LA
GACCIO
Sole
Garlic Rolls and Coffee
$1.49

ANTIPASTO
Soup De Jour or Minestrone
SCUNGILLI &
NEAPOLITAN
STYLE
Sole
Garlic Rolls and Coffee
$1.60

ANTIPASTO
Soup De Jour or Minestrone
STUFFED SCAGNA
Sole
Garlic Rolls and Coffee
$1.49

ANTIPASTO
Soup De Jour or Minestrone
CUCINELLA A LA
PARMIGIANA
Sole
Garlic Rolls and Coffee
$1.49

ANTIPASTO
Soup De Jour or Minestrone
SALADS A LA
MARINARA
Sole
Garlic Rolls and Coffee
$1.49

PLAZA GOLF COURSE PARKING
FROM MIAMI BEACH
Take Julie Tuttle Causeway and
North-South Expressway to 125th St.
Exit, Turn left to 7th Ave. and then right 7 blocks to 61st St.

For the best in German food dine in an old world atmosphere at
BAVARIAN INN
2441 S.W. 37th Ave.
(Dixie Road)
HI 6-6480

THE ONE AND ONLY
CAPT. NICK'S RESTAURANT
3150 S.W. 8th STREET
ALL U $1.25
CAN EAT
FRIED FISH & SHRIMP SERVED DAILY
Air Conditioned

PRIME RIBS
1/2 INCH CUT
2.95
ALSO SIRLOIN STEAKS, LAMB CHOPS,
LOBSTER TAILS
HURRICANE HARBOR
LOUNGE RESTAURANTS
NORTH, 19415 BISCAYNE BLVD.
SOUTH, 24 CRANDON BLVD., KEY BISCAYNE
PHONE 444-9612

Come to the Henri's
Restaurant
POTATO PANCAKES AND
HOT SPICED WINE
COMPLIMENTS OF THE
HOUSE WITH EVERY DINNER
KNOWN FOR GOOD
HOME COOKED FOOD
• BAVARIAN
• ITALIAN
• AMERICAN
3101 PONCE DE LEON
BLVD.
CORAL GABLES, FLA.
PHONE 5-3735
FINEST POLYNESIAN
CANTONESE FOODS
Hawaiian Tropical Drinks
Late Snacks
OPEN 5 P.M. - 2 A.M.
79th ST. CAUSEWAY, M.B.
RES. UN 5-3735